Seven Soldiers will compete in bobsled, luge in 2018 Winter Olympics

By Robert Dozier, IMCOM Public Affairs

SAN ANTONIO -- Seven Soldiers will be among the other athletes representing the United States Feb. 9-25, in the 2018 Olympic Winter Games in Pyeongchang, South Korea.

Returning in bobsled will be 2010 Olympic Gold Medalist Sgt. Justin Olsen from San Antonio, Texas; 2014 Olympic Bronze Medalist Cpt. Chris Fogt from Alpine, Utah; and 2010 and 2014 Olympic team member Sgt. Nick Cunningham from Monterey, California, who are all part of the U.S. Army Installation Management Command’s World Class Athlete Program. Olsen and Cunningham are members of the New York National Guard. They will be joined by Sgt. 1st Class Nathan Weber, of the 10th Special Forces, from Pueblo West, Colorado.

Sgt. Emily Sweeney from Suffield, Connecticut, and Sgt. Taylor Morris from South Jordan, Utah, will complete in singles luge, along with Sgt. Matthew Mortensen from Huntington Station, New York, who is competing in the doubles luge event. They are also Soldier-athletes in WCAP who have made the U.S. Olympic Team.

The Soldiers’ participation in the Olympics is a testament to their enduring resilience and the Army’s commitment to teamwork, determination and perseverance, and the nation encourages the world to follow and share their progress in social media using #SoldierOlympians.

Opening Ceremonies for these Winter Olympics are scheduled for Feb. 9, and luge events run Feb. 10-15. Bobsled competitions are scheduled to run Feb. 18-24, all to be broadcast by the National Broadcasting Company through NBC News and NBC Sports.

The WCAP program is composed of national and international caliber Soldiers who have been recognized in their sport, and who maximize and embody high performance agility, mental preparedness and physical strength. These Soldier-Olympians connect Americans with the Army and show that they are more than just war-fighters.

Other Soldiers are in contention to coach these Olympians on Team USA. Information on these coaches and athletes can be found at http://www.AmyMWR.com/Olympic and in social media at http://www.Facebook.com/FamilyMWR and http://www.Twitter.com/FamilyMWR.

Monday, February 26: Save with a plan
Savers with a plan can be over twice as likely to save successfully for things like retirement. Encourage service members to start their savings habit during Military Saves Week by setting a savings goal and making a plan to achieve that goal. It all starts with taking the Military Saves Pledge, and during Military Saves Week those who take the pledge will be entered in our annual #ImSavingFor Contest for a chance to win up to $750. Our 2017 Military Saver Survey found that 58 percent of Military Savers report they are saving regularly since taking the pledge.

Tuesday, February 27: Save the easy way...automatically
It can be hard to put aside money for savings, but there is an easy way to encourage service members to save money without ever missing it by making their savings automatic in 2018. Have them set up an allotment from their pay via myPay, preferably to an account that is separate from their regular checking. Or service members can use their banking institution’s bill pay system to automatically transfer money from their checking account to a separate savings account.

Wednesday, February 28: Save for rainy days
A rainy day fund or emergency fund consists of an amount of money in a savings account separate from a checking account. For military service members, permanent change of station (PCS) moves, temporary duty (TDY), and deployments are a constant in military life. While a military paycheck is predictable twice a month, these life changes bring significant income volatility and increases or decreases in expenses, which can make a service member’s budget a moving target. Service members should have funds set aside specifically for these events.

Thursday, March 1: Save to retire
Retirement was reported as the top savings goal for Military Savers, according to our 2017 Military Saver Survey. Beginning January 1, 2018, service members who are eligible for the new Blended Retirement System will be able to begin opting into the new system. But before they do so they need to make sure they are fully educated on all of their retirement options. Military Saves, in collaboration with the Department of Defense’s Office of Financial Readiness has put together a Five-Step Blended Retirement System Checklist to Success.

Friday, March 2: Save the extra
We’re more likely to save a windfall than a small amount consistently over a long period of time. Hack that psychology by encouraging service members and their families to save things like bonuses, raises, and tax refunds.

This tax season, they can get ahead of their financial goals by saving at least $50, and reward themselves with SaveYourRefund by entering to win one of over 100 prizes up to $10,000.

Saturday, March 3: Save as a family
Good savings habits start at home. Whether a family is budgeting, saving, making retirement decisions, or assessing workplace benefits, service members should share the choices they make with their children, no matter their age. It’s never too early to learn the habit of saving!
Thorpe Fitness Hall is available for use by active duty, retired military and their authorized family members, DA civilians, Reserve and National Guard personnel, DoD contracted employees, technical representatives, and employees of military banking facilities and credit unions. Classes subject to change without notice.
